

Einstein Jefferson Psychiatry Grand Rounds Series (July 2025-June 2026) Revisiting Pediatric Bipolar Disorder: Emerging Evidence and the Cost of Misdiagnosis

This weekly presentation occurs from October to June and will provide education to MDs, psychologists, medical student, nurses, and other mental health providers.

The content covers a wide spectrum of topics designed to support the practicing psychiatrist and mental health provider. Topics include pharmacology, anatomy, physiology, communication, individual and group psychotherapy techniques, and system issues.

These presentations emphasize skills in working with diverse populations.

Objectives

1. Differentiate early-onset/pediatric bipolar disorder from oppositional defiant disorder and disruptive mood dysregulation disorder by identifying overlapping and distinguishing clinical features.
2. Review and interpret current evidence supporting the diagnosis of pediatric bipolar disorder, including data on diagnostic delays and racial disparities in diagnosis.
3. Apply evidence-informed clinical strategies to improve recognition of mood dysregulation in youth presenting with disruptive behaviors and to reduce risks associated with misdiagnosis.
4. Apply evidence-informed clinical strategies to improve recognition of mood dysregulation in youth presenting with disruptive behaviors and to reduce risks associated with misdiagnosis.
